Job Title: Youth and Women's Football Development Officer
Reports to: Player Services Manager

PFA Scotland Mission Statement

"PFA Scotland, as the independent trade union for professional footballers, is the collective voice for players in Scotland. As an organisation, our aim is to protect and promote the interests of our members.

PFA Scotland is run by players for players and the experience within our team means we are committed to providing our members with the best possible advice and representation.

PFA Scotland strives to look after the collective rights of players in Scotland, as football regulations and procedures handed down by FIFA mean that a player's employment status is unique.

PFA Scotland is seeking a dynamic and dedicated Youth and Women's Development Officer to engage meaningfully with our youth and women members.

This role is a unique opportunity to make a real difference in the football community by supporting players both on and off the pitch.

The Youth and Women's Development Officer will work to enhance PFA Scotland's offerings for youth and women members, focusing on education, training, employability, and well-being. The role involves regular visits to SWPL clubs and SPFL academies to build strong relationships with club representatives and players.

As a representative of PFA Scotland, you will work professionally to expand the union's development and support services, providing one-on-one guidance to players on various aspects of their career and personal development. Building partnerships with external organisations to enhance support for players will be an integral part of your work.

In women's football, the role focuses on fostering relationships with SWPL players and representatives, developing strategies to promote the women's game.

For youth and academy players, you will lead engaging events and initiatives such as "My Future Now," "Kick Off," and "Talent Showcase," developing and delivering training programs on key topics as a core part of the role. You will also promote PFA Scotland's services to coaching staff, club personnel, and parents to ensure holistic support for players.

We are looking for someone with a genuine passion for youth and women's football, who excels in communication and relationship building.

The ideal candidate will have experience delivering education and training programs, as well as working with professional athletes.

Joining PFA Scotland means becoming part of a supportive and proactive organisation committed to making a positive impact on the lives of football players. This role offers a unique opportunity to shape the future of football in Scotland while supporting players to thrive both on and off the pitch.
